... "STANDING AT

Foreword

Included among our treasured traditions at Salem is the custom of singing "Standing at the Portal," an old Moravian hymn, at the beginning of the school year, again in January, and at the close of school. Hardly a student, past or present, can hear that familiar song without recalling her first opening chapel when she was "standing at the portal" of her life at Salem.

Here at the Academy many doors of opportunity lie open before us. As we cross the threshold of the portal marked classes, we begin to realize the importance of education and to become more interested in our studies. Behind the gym door we find not only physical recreation, but a chance to learn and practice good sportsmanship. As we pass through other portals labeled activities and organizations, we are finding fun and relaxation while we are becoming well-rounded individuals. In May the door of graduation opens for seniors, and they find themselves "standing at the portal" of college and the future. Glancing back, they see, however, that the gates of Salem are not closed for them but are welcoming the Class of '60 back in their new status as alumnae.

This year the "Quill Pen" staff has endeavored to catch a glimpse of the activities behind each portal at Salem and record in this year-book the important events which took place behind the entrance gate of the Academy.

YEAR

DEDICATION

When we, the Class of '60, entered Salem Academy as timid freshmen, Miss Lit was serving her first year as Dean. During the next two years, as our class was growing in size and spirit, she was always there to give help and encouragement.

When in September of 1959 we returned to Salem as seniors, Miss Lit was beginning her first year as principal of the Academy. During the past nine months she has been of invaluable aid to us as we selected our colleges and planned for the future.

In acknowledgement for her many contributions to Salem and to us, her first graduating class, we dedicate this yearbook to Miss Lit, our advisor, counselor, principal, and friend.

CLASSES

CASON LINEBERGER
President

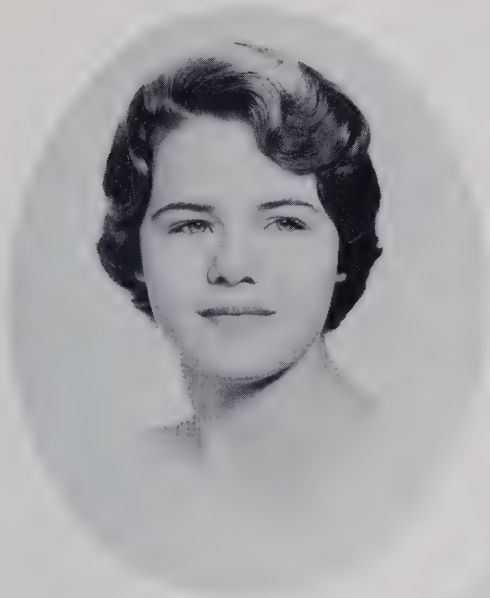

From the moment of "standing at the portals of the opening year," the Class of 1960 has been down a long corridor filled with doors, each leading closer to the one opening on to graduation. The Standards Committee, of which each senior was a member, has guided the student body through all the doors of the school year corridor, keeping Salem's standards high. Beyond the door opening the school year was one marked "Senior Day." For this occasion the class of '60 became a hoard of beatniks, ruling over the underclassmen, teaching the classes—and the faculty—and presiding over court that night. Later in the year, after agonizing anticipation, something very special was discovered in the sugar bowls at lunch. The senior rings were a symbol that the class had entered through the portals of the last year at Salem. The next big portal passed through was that of the Senior Bazaar, in which the class displayed its handiwork. The proceeds from this project opened a door on the class gift, presented in the spring of 1960. Preparations for Class Day occupied the seniors for the rest of the year. Much had to be done before the underclassmen were prepared to entertain in the dell with their antics. The highlight of the program was the presentation of the seniors in pastel evening dresses. At the end of the year's corridor was Graduation, the largest portal of all, leading to future portals of college and of life.

Class Officers: Sheila Smith, Treasurer; Annah Leigh Thornton, Secretary; Connie Burroughs, Vice President; Cason Lineberger, President.

of their future lives

Junior CLASS

"Going once, . . . going twice, . . . sold!"

This phrase brings back memories of the Junior Auction, which was held in November of 1959. The juniors sold doughnuts on Sunday and ice cream with ginger ale several nights a week. From these and various other projects, such as selling tip-ons, Christmas cards, and even themselves as slaves, the Class of '61 gained the funds needed to make this year's Junior-Senior the best ever. That long-awaited dance was held in February and will not be soon forgotten by the graduating class.

The juniors tackled their school work with much the same enthusiasm they displayed while working on their class projects. "The Tempest" and Sir Roger de Coverley were studied in English, and second semester Wednesdays came to mean not only soup, but Bible, too.

Shortly after Christmas they received the longed-for blazers, the sign of an upper-classman. When the elections for student body officers came around in the spring, the juniors began to realize that their senior year, with its added responsibilities, was really not so far away at all.

Sophomore CLASS

The Sophomore class has experienced a year marked by work and constant activity. At the beginning of the fall term, the sophomores busied themselves with such tasks as providing movies and entertainment for the student body, and presenting the traditional sophomore skit. As a culmination of their achievements, the sophomores honored the seniors with an open house before the Junior-Senior "grand bal." It is seldom that a more original and industrious group than this year's sophomore class graces the portals of Salem Academy.

This year is notable for giving us our largest freshman class in many years—twenty-six strong. Of these, seventeen call the third floor home for a good portion of the time. As a class they have distinguished themselves academically and have displayed fine cooperation and school spirit in all their activities.

The flag in front of Mary Patterson has flown daily by courtesy of the freshman class. Through a Service Committee, they cheered many in the infirmary with mail delivery. In January they proved their sales ability by holding a successful bake sale.

The annual freshman carnival, which was held in March this year, had as its theme "Roaming in Rome." This not only gave the rest of the school a clever presentation of an ancient Roman festival, but made us realize the freshmen took their Latin and ancient history very much to heart.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student COUNCIL

Salem has two important student government bodies of which the Student Council is one. Its members include the president of the student body, the president of the Honor Council, two senior counselors, one student from each hall, and two girls from the day student group.

The council sponsors the traditional banquet at the beginning of the school year, at which time the seniors cut the birthday cake. It also sponsors the Christmas banquet and plans the party for the help and their children. They make and fill a Christmas stocking for each youngster. At the close of the year, council members join next year's elected members to present the inspiring Spirit Fire ceremony.

SUE MCKENZIE, President

Seated: Pam Larson, Tillie Anne Kidd, Judy Shannon, Sue McKenzie, Emily Pleasants, Hannah Gilliam, Lee Slawter, Miss Hodges, advisor; Sandra Smith. Standing:

Cam Stewart, Paula Sue Russell, Rosemary Halsey, Polly Tarwater, Claudia Crawford, Gail McMichael, Patsy Bradshaw, Susan Gray.

Honor COUNCIL

The Honor Council consists of the president of the Student Council, the president of the Honor Council, and representatives from each class and from the day students.

The Honor Council tries to instill in each girl a high sense of integrity and the full realization of the importance of the honor code. It is the duty of the Honor Council to maintain the effective honor system of which we here at Salem are all so proud.

JUDY SHANNON, President

First Row: Jody Bennett, Judy Shannon, Martha Thompson, Sue McKenzie. Second Row: Nancy Crain, Emese

Soos, Sarah Pickens, Julia Miley, Connie Burroughs.

SADIE SPENCE
Editor

QUILL PEN

Enthusiasm and group co-operation are only two of the qualities shown by the members of the editorial staff this year. By planning and working together the staff endeavored to recapture the year's events and publish a year-book which everyone would enjoy and appreciate.

Our sponsor, Mrs. Nancy Maurice, through her able assistance and keen interest, was very helpful to all the staff members during the year.

Seated: Elinor Lasseter, Brownie Rogers, Sadie Spence, Margie Cooley, Betsey Creekmore, Peggy Reynolds.

Standing: Marjorie Randolph, Bonnie Horner, Parks Freeze, Betty Zouck, Emese Soos, Liz Terry, Dottie Davis.

Seated: Whitley Vogler, Charlotte Carter, Stafford Davis, Lou Whitaker, Kate Harris, Sheila Smith, Priscilla Bennett, Connie Burroughs. Standing: Zan La

Roque, Emily Pleasants, Alice Brown, Kathryn Johnson, Bette Upton, Melinda Babcock, Mary Marshall, Lee Slawter.

Throughout the year the members of the Ad Staff worked very hard to do their job efficiently and to the best of their ability. In order to have a successful annual, this staff must collect ads from both Winston-Salem and out-of-town merchants. This year the members of the Ad Staff certainly did their part in making the publication of our yearbook possible.

SCRIBBLER'S CLUB

ford Davis, Patty Nash, Merrily Austin. Fourth Row: Taffy Shockey, Pam Larson, Brownie Rogers, Sheila Smith, Sandra Smith, Priscilla Bennett, Gray Preston, Molly McPeake, Mimi McArthur, Bette Upton.

Officers: Priscilla Bennett, Secretary; Pam Larson, Art Editor; Betsey Creekmore, Editor; Helen Rogers, Assistant Editor.

Every Thursday at 1:45 the Scribbler's Club convenes. The club, with Miss Nowack as sponsor, is composed of girls who are interested in writing and enthusiastic about helping to publish the school magazine, Spilled Ink. The club is also responsible for the summer edition of Spilled Ink, which is called Pencil Shavings.

Members of the club learn to write, proof-read, make up the paper, and do all other chores necessary for publication except the mimeographing. The art staff draws the illustrations and cover design and cuts them on the stencils.

While the Scribbler's Club writes most of the articles for Spilled Ink, other students' contributions are welcomed.

DRAMATICS CLUB

First Row: Suzanne Forbes, Betsey Creekmore, Helen Rogers, Oliver Gilbert, Kate Harris, Parks Freeze, Pam Larson, Molly McPeake, Betty Zouck. Second Row: Sue

McKenzie, Brownie Rogers, Annah Leigh Thornton, Rachel Oestreicher, Janet Hamer, Taffy Shockey, Sadie Spence.

Officers: Oliver Gilbert, Vice-President; Betty Zouck, President; Taffy Shockey, Secretary.

For the entertainment and edification (we hope) of our audiences, the dramatics club presents a series of one act plays in the fall and a three act play in the spring. These plays are actually school ventures, not confined strictly to the members of the dramatics club. By taking part in the plays or serving backstage, a girl can accumulate the points needed for membership in the club.

Although we cannot claim any of the famous names of the present stage as our products, we feel that our amateur presentations are as much fun for the audience as they are for the aspiring actresses. We owe much of our success to our director, Mr. James Bray, who has taught us a great deal about acting and speaking distinctly in spite of our southern accents.

DANCE COMMITTEE

When the Student Council holds its first meeting in the fall, one of its duties is to choose a Dance Committee chairman. This year Ida May Peacock and Claudia Crawford were elected co-chairmen of the Social and Dance Committees.

It is the responsibility of these two girls as heads of the Dance Committee to direct the planning and decorating for the school dances. The first of these was an informal dance held in early October with school pennants and banners for decorations. Another dance was scheduled for the latter part of second semester.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

Another duty of the Dance Committee chairmen is to direct and supervise the work of the Social Committee. The main function of this group is to present a birthday banquet to celebrate all Salemites' birthdays at once.

Standing: Claudia Crawford, Ida May Peacock, Anna Hicks Potter. On ladder: Annah Leigh Thornton, Myra Boone, Gardie Schmidt, Sancier Masland, Julia Miley.

GLEE CLUB

As one of the largest organizations at Salem, the Glee Club plays an important part in school life. The club is open to all students and meets twice a week.

This year the chorus sang at the Patrons' Tea and at Adelaide's church, and the ensemble sang at Senior Vespers. The success of these projects and the general enthusiasm of the singers can be directly attributed to Mrs. Burroughs, the Glee Club director. Under her supervision many Salemites have learned a great deal about the world of music, and all members of the Glee Club will long remember with pleasure the Tuesdays and Fridays when Glee Club met.

Officers: Brownie Rogers, Vice-President; Sarah Pickens, Secretary-Treasurer; Annah Leigh Thornton, President; Margie Cooley, Business Manager; Lynn Chatham, Librarian.

Every student at Salem has an opportunity to join the Junior Red Cross by pledging her time, service, or money. During the year the members participate in such activities as making Thanksgiving favors for the County Home and caroling at Christmas time.

It is the function of the Junior Red Cross Council, under the supervision of Mrs. Moser, to plan and direct the program for the year. The council is composed of elected representatives from the day student and hall groups.

Kate Harris and Liz Terry, President.

Seated: Anne Mardis, Lockhart Follin, Joan Warrick, Sarah Stowers, Louise Nading. Standing: Martha Glenn, Betsy Crutchfield, Kate Harris, Sammye Gene Henderson.

Daniela Proietti, our foster child.

Through the Community and World Service Committee, which is composed of representatives from the dormitory halls and from the day student group, Salemites are given an opportunity to help those less fortunate than themselves.

The duties of the committee are many and varied. From donations given by the student body, the committee is contributing to the Heart Fund and to Dr. Tom Dooley and his cancer research program. Also it sends several girls to Colegio Morava, the Moravian school in Nicaragua. The girls sponsor a foster child, Daniela Proietti, to whom they send money to provide for her food, clothing and schooling.

Spiritual Life COUNCIL

The Spiritual Life Council is composed of elected representatives from the halls plus a permanent council appointed by the president. The purpose of this organization is to enrich each girl's life by promoting Christian living throughout the school. Under the guidance of Miss Wheeler the council presents Sunday vesper programs, Friday night devotionals, Thanksgiving gifts to needy families, and various other projects. In February Dr. Wilson O. Weldon, pastor of Myers Park Methodist Church in Charlotte, was the guest speaker during Religious Emphasis Days.

SARAH PICKENS
President

Council: Jane Warrick, Jennie McGuire, Vicki Talley, Becky Brown, Elinor Lasseter, Janet Hamer, Connie Triplette, Kate Harris, Annah Leigh Thornton, Margie Kale.

HONORS

Beauty Queen

HANNAH GILLIAM

The lovely young lady above is our Beauty Queen for 1960, Miss Hannah Gilliam.

Each year the Sophomore Class holds a poll for the election of the queen. The entire student body votes, and all anxiously await the announcement of the winner, who is presented with a bouquet at the Sophomore Open House in early spring.

ACADEMIC COMMENCEMENT MARSHALS

One of the highest honors bestowed on a selected few at Salem is that of Academic Commencement Marshal. Eight of the most outstanding underclassmen are elected to this position by the senior class. They are chosen for citizenship, school spirit, academic standing, and poise. Their duties include serving at the Senior-Faculty breakfast in the late spring and marshaling for the seniors at graduation.

Honor Graduates

Each year the two seniors with the highest scholastic averages are chosen as Honor Graduates. In recognition of the work they have done to earn this coveted award, their names are inscribed in gold on the wood plaques in the social room. The members of the Class of 1960 who have maintained the highest average in their academic work, and were thereby announced as the Honor Graduates this year, are Connie Burroughs and Sue McKenzie.

Every student at Salem is a member of either the Purple or Gold team. At the beginning of the school year the team captains draw names to determine on which team each new girl shall be during her years at Salem.

Teams having been chosen, the traditional tug-of-war then takes place. Legend has it that the team winning this contest will also win the silver cup, but this has not always held true.

Both teams work hard during the year to earn the greater number of points. Each student has gym class twice a week, and an extra hour of practice outside of class is required. There are also many other athletic activities which offer opportunities to win points. Morning walks around the Goose Egg, horseback riding, and bowling are just a few. At the end of each season the Athletic Council sponsors games in the sports the girls have been studying.

At the end of each semester the council presents an athletic banquet at which those girls displaying special interest and skill in a particular sport are honored by being announced as varsity players. At the close of the year these girls receive medals as proof of their outstanding ability.

The highlight of the athletic program at Salem is Recognition Day. On this occasion the silver cup is presented to the team which has earned the most points in the games, tournaments, and other activities.

PURPLES

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

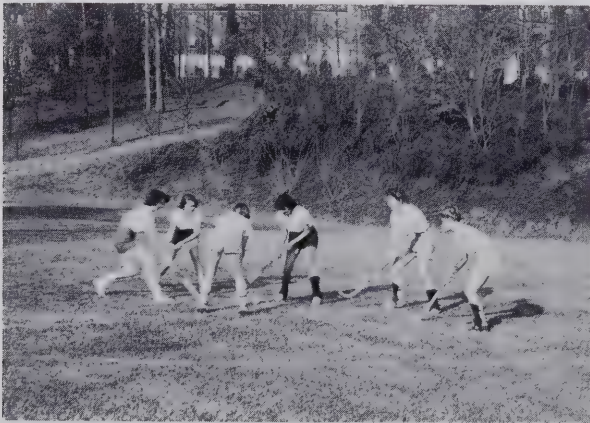

Bottom Row: Nancy Hall, Priscilla Bennett, Betsey Creekmore, Margie Cooley, Peggy Sue Reynolds, Elinor

Lasseter, Pam Larson, Gray Preston. Top Row: Kate Harris, Eleanor Brown, Suzanne Forbes.

The athletic council is composed of the captains of the Purple and Gold teams and the appointed heads of the different sports. The duties of the council include organizing the various Purple-Gold games, sponsoring several tournaments, and planning the athletic banquets. The council, with Miss Winkelmann as advisor, encourages interest and enthusiasm for athletics and promotes good sportsmanship.

ACTIVITIES

The playroom, with its modern furniture and recreational facilities, is a center of weekend activity. The television set in the background was a gift from the Class of '59.

On December 16, 1959, the Glee Club, in conjunction with the Dramatics Club, presented its annual Christmas pageant.

Suzanne Forbes and Nina Paul Edmondson, special photographers for the "Quill Pen," consider the best angle for their next picture.

Mrs. Mize listens to the French students singing their Christmas carols in language lab.

On January 15 the Athletic Council presented the first of its two annual banquets. The theme of the banquet was the 1960 Olympics.

The library has an atmosphere of studious quietness.

As members of the Service Committee, the freshmen have the duty of raising and lowering the flag.

These charming young ladies are watching some of the relay races at the Halloween party which the faculty sponsored.

Each year the Junior Class elects four underclassmen to serve refreshments at Junior-Senior. This year Martha Thompson, Mary Shockey, Gardie Schmidt, and Susan Gray were chosen.

Miss Wheeler stresses balance, rhythm, unity, and proportion in her studio art class.

Besides their handmade items, the seniors also sold candy at the Bazaar.

The Golds discuss strategy during half time at the hockey game.

On November 21 the Dramatics Club presented three one-act plays. The plays were "Halves," in which two spinsters argued over the inheritance of their late uncle; "Girls Must Talk," in which four store window mannikins talk while two window dressers who cannot hear them work around the models and carry on a conversation; and "The Project," a scene from which is shown.

SENIOR MARSHALS

An honor bestowed upon certain underclassmen each year is that of being chosen as a senior's personal marshal. Each member of the graduating class selects the underclassman of her choice early in the school year.

The duties of these marshals are as varied as they are enjoyable. Marshals are first seen in action serving as hostesses for the seniors on Senior Day. Another activity of this chosen group of underclassmen is to assist the seniors in making bouquets and getting ready for the Class Day picture.

Although the duties of the Senior Marshals seem rather trivial and unimportant, the real purpose of having these marshals is not what they do, but rather what they are. They are a tie which binds the underclassmen to the seniors in a closer friendship, and they are insurance against any member of the graduating class being soon forgotten at Salem.

"Winston has got it," says Garry Moore, "because Winston's got a secret! It's Filter-Blend—fine, mild tobaccos specially processed for filter smoking!"

"A cigarette without flavor is like a world without women. Who wants it?" says the star of Winston's television hit, "I've Got a Secret!". "After all, if you don't get flavor . . . you're missing the whole idea of smoking!"

"Winston has got flavor! Because up ahead of Winston's pure modern filter is Filter-Blend—a Winston exclusive! This secret—Filter-Blend—is what makes Winston America's best-tasting filter cigarette. Try Winston!"

What is the Northwest North Carolina Market?

The Northwest North Carolina Market is a clearly defined eleven county area—one you can easily put your finger on. Thriving towns . . . bustling communities . . . busy industrial plants . . . rich tobacco harvests . . . these are the things that boost this area into the forefront of North Carolina's progress.

Much is in store for this compact area of North Carolina. The long-awaited and much-heralded decade of the 60's is upon us. Exciting! Dynamic! To meet challenges and keep well ahead of them, your Journal and Sentinel has completed a $1,500,000 modernization and expansion program.

Step into this exciting era with your Journal and Sentinel. Each edition is meaty with NEWS—alive with FEATURES AND SPORTS—entertaining with COMICS.
